PRESIDENT WATCHING...

On my desk is a pocketbook edition of "Plain Speaking," an oral biography of Harry S. Truman. It was assembled from taped interviews with Mr. Truman in the early '60s by Merle Miller, to become a bestseller, No. 1 in fact, in 1974.

Literary critics universally praised the book for the straightforward, spontaneous recall of a remarkable man, almost as broadly as historians continue to re-evaluate Truman's stature as president.

It was given me by my sister last December, who found, like so many millions, "This is like a breath of fresh air."

She and three older brothers grew up in the Missouri of the late '20s and early '30s which molded the public character of a Kansas City country politician, cum senator, 33rd-degree Mason, vice president and president. Prior to politics, he was in the Lincoln mold a failure in business. But as president, he is still being assessed by historians for the qualities which caused the evolution of events he set in motion even until this moment.

Above all, he was a decider. Perhaps that is why Gerald Ford is trying to establish himself as the Midwesterner who is plain spoken, honest and willing to meet events, though he is appointed and by no means certain of election in his own right.

NOW-NOW-NOW

An older generation of Lueckes probably put the younger ones into "president watching." An uncle, now dead, an utility executive and a contemporary of Wendell Wilkie, knew the unsuccessful candidate against Roosevelt in 1940 and anticipated Wilkie's rise to the GOP nomination from political obscurity by perhaps three years.

This same uncle lived in Kansas City in the early 1930s and no doubt knew of Truman as a county judge in the Pendergast Era of Kansas City politics, an era which Truman cleared somehow without "boss politics" stamped on him.

Kubiak Bill To Protect Clergy, Penitents

The Texas House Wednesday approved Rep. Dan Kubiak's legislation creating a privileged relationship between clergy members and penitents.

The bill, which bars courts from coercing clergymen to reveal information given by penitents, establishes clergy - penitent privileges similar to those now held between lawyer-client, doctor-patient and husband-wife, Kubiak said.

"My bill gives legal protection to the moral trust between a preacher, priest or rabbi and congregation members," Kubiak said. "I am hopeful the Senate will also act favorably on this measure."

Current Texas law allows a judge to order clergymen to reveal information given by penitents if necessary for the "proper administration of justice," Kubiak said.

Folk Fete Directors Planning For '75

A Chili Cookout, games and contests are all in the works for the 1975 Folk Fete, and were discussed by directors at their regular meeting March 5.

The annual treats such as the parade and queen's contest will again be featured at this year's Fete.

Directors also voted to share proceeds of the Fete with organizations in Cameron. In executive session after the meeting, it was decided to donate $200 each to Cameron Little League, Milam County Junior Livestock Building Fund, Police Fund, Fire Department and Yoe High School Band, for their interest and participation and help with the Folk Fete each year.

In other business, committee reports included one by Johnny Barrett for publicity, stating that posters, billboards, radio and television will be used.

Mrs. Regina Woodum will be chairman of the queen's contest this year.

In the entertainment report, Charles Hundle said the armory will cost $50 per day this year and that bands have been secured. Clarence Hanel was appointed to the food and drink committee and Dana Kestenbaum will again accept chairmanship of the parade committee.

John Parsons was added to the parking committee and Barrett reported that plans for a chili cookout are being made for Sunday, June 8. On the finance committee are Marguerite Michalka and Ladis Marek Jr. Christine Holcombe accepted chairmanship of the decorations committee and added Vivian Pittman to that committee.

Kay Green reported that she has 20 members for the games and contests committee to help with those items.

Date for this year's fete will be set after other activities are checked for conflict.

GEORGETOWN

Letters about the upcoming Old Georgetown Market were mailed to flea market dealers interested in selling their wares in Georgetown next month. ## New Library Opened

CALDWELL

The Harrie P. Woodson Memorial Library was officially opened Saturday morning during a brief ceremony. The opening of the library marked the first time that a public library has existed in Burleson County and/or the city of Caldwell.

Cow Found Mutilated

ROCKDALE

Cow mutilation? Probably so, probably not. That was the deduction of Kit Worley concerning a cow's carcass found on his ranch in San Gabriel bottom. The carcass was badly decayed and its reproductive organs, udder, and eyes were missing. The carcass resembled cow mutilations being reported across the country. However, Worley noted, dogs, wolves, and buzzards can mutilate a carcass in similar fashion.

Crime Rate High

WACO

Waco's crime rate of 69.3 crimes per 1,000 population was four times higher than the average rate of 261 other cities in the 50,000 to 100,000 population bracket, according to a study of Uniform Crime Reports for 1973. The rate is well above McLennan County's 49.4, Texas' 40.5, and the nation's 41.2.

Scientists Predict U.S. Volcanic Eruption

By Walter J. Bagley

NEW YORK

Reuter - Three American scientists predict that by the end of this century there could be a volcanic eruption in the northwestern United States worse than the one that buried the city of Pompeii in 79 A.D.

The three scientists, who work for the U.S. Geological Survey, base their prediction on a detailed geological study of the history of Mount St. Helens, a little-known volcano in southern Washington state about 85 miles from the Pacific Ocean.

"The repetitive nature of the eruptive activity of Mount St. Helens during the last 4000 years... suggests... an eruption is likely within the next hundred years, possibly before the end of this century," the three men - Dwight Crandell, Donal Milneaux and Meyer Rubin - write in a recent issue of the scientific journal, Science.

Although they are relatively sure there will be volcanic activity at St. Helens within a century, they are less sure of its exact nature or how long it will last.

But in the eruptive period lasting years or decades," they write, "a variety of eruptive events and lithologic types can be anticipated."

Mount St. Helens, with a history of 37,000 years, is a relatively young volcano, compared with some of its more famous neighbors, Mounts Rainier, Hood and Adams.

According to the scientists, its current visible bulk, with an elevation of about 9,680 feet, was formed within the past 2,400 years, with its upper part being built up within the past few centuries.

The three scientists compiled its history by studying historical documents and by analyzing the layers of volcanic deposits that surround it. They also compared it with several of the world's most famous volcanoes - Japan's Fuji, Iceland's Hekla and Italy's Vesuvius, which buried Pompeii.

They determined the timing of most of the volcano's many active and dormant periods through carbon - dating - measuring the amount of decay of radioactive carbon, which has a known half-life, the time it takes for exactly one-half of its mass to decay into nitrogen.

In the past 4,000 years, they determined, Mount St. Helens had roughly four periods of major activity - 2500 to 1600 B.C., 1200 to 800 B.C., 400 B.C. to 400 A.D. and 1300 A.D. through the first half of the last century.

During those periods, various types of eruptions occurred which produced long rivers of flowing lava, huge build-ups of fragmented rocks, thick piles of ash and dust and sometimes large volcanic domes.

During one of its most active periods, between 2500 to 1600 B.C., Rock and ash particles from Mount St. Helens covered areas between 250 and 400 miles downwind of it. Another large eruption occurred about 1500 when the volcano spewed pumice well into northeastern Washington, almost 400 miles away.

During that same active period, probably somewhere between 1600 and 1700, the volcano's present summit was formed.

What is most interesting to Crandell, Milneaux and Rubin, however, is the frequency of the mountain's active periods, especially in recent times.

"The data now available suggest that since about 2500 B.C. the volcano has never been dormant for more than five centuries at a time and that dormant periods of one or two centuries, or less, have been more typical," they write.

They also point out that even during these apparently inactive periods there could have been some relatively minor eruptions which are not indicated by their research.

These findings have led the three geologists to predict that Mount St. Helens, dormant since 1857, will erupt again before 2057, perhaps as early as the year 2000.

Letters to the Editor

March 4, 1975

March 6, 1975

Mr. Luecke:
I do not believe we have ever met but I have been a long time reader and subscriber to THE HERALD. I used to read it away back in the 30's and 40's when I visited my grandmother, Mrs. W. L. Lutner who lived for about 50 years at 215 S. Crockett in Cameron. I take this time as I send in my subscription renewal to comment on your editorial of Dec. 16, 1974 concerning your ideas of the picture of Mr. Solzhenitsyn and Rev. Billy Graham. You have a sharp editorial pen and most of the time I agree with your opinions -- in fact your column is the first part of the Herald I read. I don't remember any other reader comment on this -- in fact I don't believe I recall any "letters to editor" printed in the Herald. I don't intend this to begin such a column but I do not totally agree with your perspective. Most of the time you have a view away beyond the editor of a small town bi-weekly paper -- this is why I enjoy reading you. However, this time in my opinion you are reflecting a sheltered, narrow look in part of your article. You say that "Graham has been doing well while doing good" comparing this to Alex. Sol. who you say "risked his life as a man on his skills as a writer." Seems to me you are making a judgmental opinion based on little or no information about Mr. Graham. Did you research this? Have you ever been in on a crusade or as a reporter interviewed Graham on this? You insinuate that Graham "plays safe public relations" -- how do you know? You who live in Texas and know ex-president Johnson and the way he got to Washington and stayed there -- why is Watergate any worse than this? Both are wrong and I think the only way we will ever change "things" is to change people. Only God can do this and I think Mr. Graham is doing his thing better than your criticism of him. However, you are entitled to your opinions as I am to mine -- best wishes.

Dear Mr. Luecke:
It was with much interest that I read your editorial in The Cameron Herald entitled "First in the Minds." Thank you for the support that you are continually giving to Texas State Technical Institute at its four locations -- Waco, Harlingen, Amarillo, and Sweetwater. It would only be natural for communities where these campuses are located to fully support their existence, but getting this kind of support from other parts of the State clearly shows that we are making a breakthrough with this new concept of technical educational training.

Please continue your efforts informing the public that Texas State Technical Institute's only reason for existence is to train men and women skills they can take into the market place and exchange for a decent livelihood.

Sincerely,
J. H. Kultgen

Dear Mr. Luecke:

I wish to thank you for our rewarding experience concerning the recent presentation and tour of your newspaper plant. The courtesy extended the classes and teachers of O. J. Thomas Middle School is sincerely appreciated.

I believe you have our school's interest at heart, as you have shown on many occasions.

ED NOTE -- The Herald runs letters to the editor almost every edition. FML lived in Warsaw, Ind., off and on for 11 years, which is adjacent to a summer religious community called Winona Lake, Ind. Billy Sunday built a tabernacle there. His widow died there. Mr. Graham started with massive "Youth for Christ" rallies there in the late 1940s, early 1950s. Bigtime evangelism did not have TV, but it did have the same techniques of developing attendance, massed choirs that you see on television, Graham Crusades today. Then an now, it required enormous amounts of money, contributions and show biz promotion. Mr. Graham visited the White House as a guest in both the Johnson and Nixon administrations, until Watergate. And sheltered I am not.

Dear Friend of the March of Dimes:

On behalf of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, I wish to extend my sincere appreciation for your support in the prevention of birth defects. We are pleased that you recognize the need for the public to be informed on the March of Dimes programs of medical research, medical services, public and professional education, and community service in the fight against birth defects, the number one childhood health problem in the United States today.

Through this type of concerned effort on the part of the mass media, the National Foundation-March of Dimes will be able to conquer birth defects as they did polio. Thank you again for your time and consideration the past few months.

Sincerely,

"TAKE THAT, AND THAT, AND THAT ----"

"Low Down"
FROM THE Congressional Record
By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

DEFENSE DEPT. VICTIM OF DEFICIT SPENDING

Rep. William L. Dickinson (La.) "... We Americans have engaged in reckless deficit spending for too long now, and the day is close at hand when we must face the music and pay the piper. "Rampant inflation is today, indeed, threatening the very ability of the Department of Defense to "provide for the national defense." The Soviets outspend us militarily, and have since 1970.

"Let me give you a few facts and figures. ...

"The cost of procurement of a small steel item like track shoes, which are the individual links comprising the track on tracked vehicles such as tanks and armored personnel carriers has increased a total of $18.7 million in less than 2 years. ... The cost of coal has increased 91 percent, electricity 58 percent. ...

"Let us take a look at the Navy. We know that a ship's useful life is limited to about 25 years. Using that figure we must build an average of 20 ships per year just to maintain a fleet of 500 ships, about what we have now. ... Since 1970, the Navy has received authority to build a total of 89 ships, or an average of about 15 per year. ...

"Even today, except for our aircraft carriers, the Soviets lead us in tonnage of surface combat ships, nuclear-powered submarines, diesel-powered submarines, and in tonnage of coastal patrol and minesweeping ships. They have more major surface combat ships and three times as many submarines as the United States.

"The Congress has the responsibility for establishing and maintaining the military force of our Nation. If we choose to provide them with worthless dollars, then we must also bear the blame. If we are going to fulfill our responsibility of all the American people, then we must begin to act in a responsible way.

"Who among us believes we have an alternative?"

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Regardless of deficit spending, congressmen continue to tap the Federal Treasury for Urban renewal and Civic Center addition funds. The National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities which began with $7 million in 1966 now gets $150 million. The list is endless. The tune is "deficit spending" and the piper is "buyer resistance."

For Educational Needs...

Something good is happening in Cameron Independent School District.

Ten candidates have filed for election, including two incumbents for re-election. A school board race is alive because of educational need and not some tax issue which usually brings out pro and con delegations.

Cameron has a competent school superintendent who is young, experienced, and wanting to get on with the physical plant and modern curriculum needs of CISD, which is one-third of Milam County.

Legislation already has passed the Texas House which eliminates state aid to County Superintendent offices, meaning those counties with no or few common districts (Milam County has Buckholts which has applied for independent school vote status) will receive no aid from Texas if the Senate votes with the House.

This comes at a time when schools will stand on their merit as independent districts capable of education development or they will consolidate.

Ten candidates for two CISD school posts leaves little doubt what is about to happen in Milam County, at least in CISD. We are going to see basic efforts at gaining school facilities which are at least equal with athletic prowess and band performance.

Ten candidates will open debate on the real issues and needs of this district. Concern for how CISD was created is passing. What it needs for students from town and country is coming to the top.

The evaluation by Texas Education Agency accreditation team members is a guideline for Supt. Dulin and the CISD board. It is a compass for the direction education here should take for generations to come.

Ten candidates for two school board posts is significant. The degree of difference, other than personality, is not likely to be great on what CISD needs.

NOW from Page 1

My father was an admirer of the early FDR and took me as a preschooler to see him during a campaign stop at Ponca City, Okla., in 1936.

In November, 1944, my sister and I got our first look at Truman in a Washington open-car motorcade after the Roosevelt - Truman ticket won FDR's fourth term. Roosevelt was gray and dying, and Truman was no match in bearing and looks even at that with the New Yorker he was to succeed six months later.

It is much of that period from April, 1945, which Miller's book recalls through Harry Truman's monologues. The tapes were to be used for a network television series, but Truman's sledge-hammer commentary apparently put the material beyond broadcast 10 years ago.

Beyond pithy comments on everybody Truman ever dealt with for seven years, from Eleanor Roosevelt to Douglas MacArthur, the book establishes Truman's ability to decide.

with a problem, the only question he ever asked was, 'How long have I got?' And he never asked later what would have happened if he had decided differently. I doubt that that ever concerned him. He was not a man who was tortured by second thoughts. Those were luxuries, like self-pity, in which a man in power could not indulge himself.

"I would say that Mr. Truman had an Aristotelian understanding of power. He had not only read the Greek and Roman philosophers, he understood them. And by understanding what men had done in the past he was able with a sometimes terrifying reality to anticipate what a man would do in the present. He had an almost unbelievable ability to judge character."

Finally, recalls Acheson: "And he was as near to being totally unselfish as any man I have ever known, with the possible exception of General Marshall."

NOW-NOW-NOW

Among others, I was at the Kennedy assassination and heard Kennedy-era State Department analysis. I saw Lyndon Johnson before, during and after the White House. I met Richard Nixon only a few months before he resigned in August, 1974, because of a poor decision, compounded by others.

That continuity of observation through personal and family experience brings Harry Truman beyond "Plain Speaking" about personalities, government and power. He was unique in the ability to decide and dismiss.

This country emerged from world war a great power he thrust into nuclear, police-action and domino-theory geopolitics, the Marshall Plan, the UN and a prolific series of events relating to our troubles today.

And by the popularity of "Plain Speaking," it is not an unwarranted assumption this country desires once again to find the qualities in a man or men to unravel what Harry Truman so unceremoniously began, what he would unceremoniously end.

He was capable of more than "plain speaking."

NOW-NOW-NOW

Eastern establishmentarians may retain the idea he was a lightweight because he failed to agonize after monumental decisions went down. Midwesterners and Southwesterners may recall with glee his uncomplicated view of the presidency, which he complicated evermore by those decisions. He was more responsible than Roosevelt for drawing imperial powers to the White House.

His ability as a decider enabled him one other decision. He left the trappings behind when he left Washington. Which led to an observation by Dean Acheson, his first secretary of state, an Eastern liberal who owed Truman his loyalty, but whose summation was based on comparisons with giants like Oliver Wendell Holmes, George C. Marshall, Truman's military - aid after ego, among others.

Says Acheson: "But to me his greatest quality as President, as a leader was his ability to decide. General Marshall, who also had that quality, has said that the ability to make a decision is a great gift, perhaps the greatest gift a man can have. When I would come to him

SHOTGUN BURST - Shannon Miller of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept.'s Hunter Safety staff shows what happens when a careless hunter uses 20-gauge shotgun shells in a 12-gauge gun. During 1974, 110 Texans were involved in hunting accidents and 16 lost their lives.

Hunting Accidents Down

Although it's little consolation to the victims, the 1974 total of hunting accidents and fatalities is down from the previous year.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Hunter Safety Coordinator T. D. Carroll has compiled all the casualty reports submitted by game wardens, and the tally for 1974 was 68 accidents and 16 fatalities.

This compares to the 1973 figures of 80 hunting accidents with 22 deaths.

"Even though the latest figures are down," said Carroll, "the disturbing thing about them is that of the 110 people involved in hunting accidents in 1974, 28 were 16 years of age or younger."

Twenty-four of the 68 recorded accidents were classified according to what Carroll calls "hunter judgment." The victim moved into the line of fire, was covered while the shooter was swinging on game, was out of sight of the shooter, or was mistaken for game.

Texas hunters who carried loaded guns in their vehicles accounted for 14 of the accidents.

Carroll is in charge of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department - administered Volunteer Hunter Safety Program.

Yoe Volleyballers In 3-Way Tie

The Yoe High girls volleyballers went down in defeat in district play Tuesday night to Caldwell.

The district went into a three-way tie as Cameron, Caldwell, and Rosebud-Lott are locked up for the district title.

In the junior varsity game Yoe took the first game 15-9 with Renee Krenek taking the service line and putting away 10 points in the winning effort.

In the second game, Caldwell fought back with tough sloking to take it, 15-1.

In the deciding game, Yoe took the lead and looked like Yoe would take the match with tough net play. Caldwell went to the service line for a match win, 15-7.

In the varsity game the clock ran out on all three games to bring the zone into a three-way tie. In the opening game Yoe laced the net with a 14-10 win. In the second game, Caldwell jumped to the lead and took the second game, 15-8.

In the deciding game for the district match, it lasted several minutes past the eight minute clock and ended 14-10.

Yoe will face Elgin here Tuesday night at Yoe Gym in a non-district match. Then Yoe will travel to Caldwell for the final district game and what could be for the district championship.

OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

When it comes to enthusiastic angling by fishermen of all ages and all ranks of life, crappie seekers undoubtedly head the list.

You'll find these anglers active day and night, sometimes seven days a week. Not just one or two boats at a time either—but dozens. Often they are bunched, two, three or four persons to the boat, in the same area. There's nothing clammy about crappie fishermen. They really stick together.

They're sometimes called brush fishermen. Once they locate a "hot spot", whether it be among a forest of trees or in the center of a clear lake, that's where they hie to enmasse.

You'll find these anglers sitting in a boat, almost hidden by shrubs and tree tops that protrude from the water.

You'll find them nestled far out in the clear, wide waters. Or so it seems. But far below there's plenty of brush. They just may have anchored over an island. In fact, if brush wasn't there, the crappie wouldn't be for crappie are seldom found elsewhere.

Crappie are fidgety fish, dashing here, there and everywhere that they can find safety from marauders. Which brings us back again to brush.

Crappie are popular, perhaps for many reasons. In the first place they are plentiful. When you find their hideout you'll find plenty of these fish. They are always hungry, or so it seems. A good crappie fisherman quite often brings in 50 or 60 or more of them at a time. Because these fish are so plentiful there is no catch limits set by law.

ROME

"Slowly but surely thieves are taking away every single work of art in the country," says Italy's top stolen art sleuth, Dr. Rodolfo Siviero. It is a bitter comment, but hardly surprising from a man who has worked for 30 years to recover art treasures from abroad--and now witnesses what amounts to wholesale ransacking of Italy's finest museums.

PORTUGAL

The battle for votes and minds in the more conservative northern half of Portugal is being stepped up as the country heads for its first free elections in nearly 50 years. Various political groups are applying their own types of pressure and last month, for instance, leftwing rioters forced the closing of a Center Democrat Party congress.

TEL AVIV

A rash of violent crime is worrying the authorities in Israel. There were 80 murders last year, for instance, compared with 27 in the war year of 1973 and 49 in 1972, regarded as a peak crime year, according to figures given by Israeli Deputy Police Commander Yehezkel Carthy.

NEW YORK

Chart-topping musicians don't often write their own Broadway shows, but a rapidly rising singer called Harry Chapin has done both. Until two months ago, Chapin was best known for just one song, an almost seven minute long story set to music called "Taxi" which made the best selling charts in 1972.

BONN

After years of recruitment problems, West German's armed forces are savoring the unfamiliar luxury of choosing candidates from a growing stream of volunteers. To the surprise of defense ministry experts, the number of applications from students intent on a military career soared to 65,000 last year.

JOHANNESBURG

The South African government may be preparing to strike a final crushing blow against white student politicians who oppose its apartheid racial policies. The way for the ultimate crackdown has been cleared by an official commission of inquiry into the country's universities, which recommended that the white National Union of South African Students should be broken as a political force for all time.

THE INFLATED DOLLAR

You see its effects on your food prices, your housing prices and most other things... just as Texas Power & Light Company sees it on the cost of everything necessary to produce and supply your electricity.

FUELS COST MORE

To produce electricity, TP&L generating plants must use fuels—natural gas, lignite coal and oil. In 1952, the price of gas, the principal fuel used by TP&L, was just five cents per 1,000 cubic feet. In 1974, the price was 48 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The Company's total fuel bill in 1974 was $89 million, more than 64% higher than in 1973.

CONSTRUCTION COSTS MORE

To counter uncertain supplies and spiraling costs of gas and oil, TP&L is building new generating plants which will use lignite coal and nuclear materials. Ironically, lignite-fueled plants cost more than twice as much per kilowatt as gas-fueled plants and the cost of nuclear plants is still higher.

FINANCING COSTS MORE

Just as most people must borrow money to build their homes, TP&L must borrow money to construct its power plants and other facilities. While the interest rates the Company must pay on borrowed money are now somewhat lower than the all-time high of 10 1/2% in 1974, they are still about twice the rates of 1964. You and all TP&L customers expect a reliable supply of electric power and we're constantly working to meet this responsibility. However, because of the squeeze of rising costs, it is inevitable that the price of electricity must be increased in the future.

See The Motorcycle ?

You may not find a motorcycle in this picture, but you'll find plenty of them on Texas' streets and highways.

The trouble is, not enough automobile drivers are seeing motorcycles when they should. Not until it's too late, anyway.

Maybe if motorcycles were as big as balloons, you'd be more careful when you see them. But nothing is bigger than human life. And that's what we're really asking you to look out for.

Insurance Costs Can Be Lower, Says Association

Choose your weapons. The battle against inflation is still underway. "The public is at war against inflation, but at least for insurance policyholders there are some weapons," says John Fred Stephens, president of the Association of Fire and Casualty Companies in Texas (AFACT). Stephens cites several ways policyholders might save money: take increased advantage of deductibles, eliminate unnecessary coverages and qualify for various kinds of discounts.

"Money-saving isn't a bad word with the insurance in-

Deadline Told For TJC Financial Aid

March 15 is the deadline for applications to Temple Junior College's financial aid counselors for Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), Dr. Walter Paul, Dean of Student Services, has announced.

Any student who was not enrolled in college prior to April 1, 1973 may apply for the BEOG grant, he said. Students who did not attend TJC during the fall semester may be eligible for up to $444 in grant monies, Dr. Paul said.

Students who did attend in the fall, but did not apply for BEOG assistance, may be eligible for up to $888, he said, with the monies retroactive to September of 1974.

"If a student does not know if he qualifies for BEOG money, he may apply, mail in his application and perhaps be awarded a sizable grant," he said. "The student is only out the cost of a 10-cent stamp," Dr. Paul said.

Students who had BEOG grants last year think they may not receive BEOG grants

Major Knitter Plans Cotton Blend Fabric

Texfi Knit One has introduced its first fabric containing a high percentage of cotton.

The company is merchandising a new double knit fabric containing 65 percent cotton and 35 percent polyester under the Cotton Incorporated trademark "Natural Blend."

Cotton Incorporated represents U.S. cotton growers as their marketing and research company. Marketing operations are centered in New York City; research operations are conducted from Raleigh, N. C.

Texfi Knit One is the menswear division of Texfi Industries, America's largest double knit company. Historically the company has produced 100 percent synthetic fiber knits.

"The adoption of Cotton Incorporated's 'Natural Blend' by Texfi is another indication of the continuing resurgence of cotton in apparel for Americans," said J. Nicholas Hahn, Cotton Incorporated vice president for sales-marketing.

The Texfi "Natural Blend Double Knit" will appear in men's and boy's apparel made by manufacturers of better clothing in fall 1975.

In other words, he agrees to pay the first $50, $100, or $200 of a loss. This makes sense because insurance is meant to protect against large or catastrophic losses. Stephens says, "and could wreck a review of each policy may wipe someone out in fact be necessary to help. A $50 or $100 necessary bill is not likely insurance automobile owners were approved by the State Board of Insurance. Insurance industry spokesman in fact have presented statistical evidence that the Board should okay still higher rates, in view of soaring costs.

"Actually, increases were inevitable," Stephens says, "because the things insurance pays for are getting more expensive."

The U. S. Department of Labor's Consumer Price Index, for example, cites an increase in the cost of house maintenance and repairs of more than 75 percent in the last five years. During the same period, the cost of auto repairs and maintenance increased more than 50 percent, and the cost of medical care rose nearly as much. "The idea of deductibles in insurance is not new," Stephens says. "It simply means that the policyholder buys a little less insurance."

Klingeman Suspended By USDA

Raymond J. Klingemann, of Austin, has been suspended as a registered market agent and livestock dealer for violating financial, payment, and recordkeeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

Klingemann purchases livestock throughout south-central Texas.

Klingemann consented to issuance of the order, and waived oral hearing. He neither admitted nor denied the charges contained in an administrative complaint filed by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

USDA Administrative Law Judge John G. Liebert suspended Klingemann's registration for a 10-day period, and thereafter until he demonstrates that he is no longer insolvent. He may not operate as a market agency or dealer during this time.

Klingemann was also ordered to cease and desist from issuing insufficient funds checks and failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price for livestock.
